Evaluation Criteria and Procedures

Students are evaluated on their ability to formulate a rational approach to solving the assigned problem as well as on their grasp of fundamental principles. Three examination outcomes are possible: “pass”, “conditional pass”, or “fail”. Students who pass the Qualifying Examination are eligible to take the Preliminary Exam to become Ph.D. candidates. Students who do well but for whom a deficiency is identified which diminishes the sufficiency of the presentation, may be given a “conditional pass” and be asked to remedy the deficiency as specified by the examining Subcommittee. All remedial work must be completed in no more than eight weeks. If the remedy is satisfactory, the Subcommittee will recommend to the Chair of the SBES Graduate Committee that the student pass. If the remedy is unsatisfactory, the student fails the exam. Students who fail the qualifying examination on their first try are permitted one additional attempt at a later date on a new problem. A second “fail” will prevent the student from continuing in the Ph.D. program. Students who have not completed the M.S. degree at this point may be allowed to pursue an M.S. degree.
